Arabic in a Week is a short course which will equip you to deal with everyday situations when you visit any of the Arab countries: introducing yourself, asking for directions, booking accommodation, changing money, shopping, eating out, using the phone, using public transport and so on.

The course is divided into 7 units, each corresponding to a day of the week. Different topics are introduced in each unit to illustrate basic Arabic which can be used by tourists or business people during a short stay in an Arabic speaking country. Each unit includes short introductions to the topics covered, dialogues in everyday situations, lists of key words and phrases with their English equivalent, essential grammatical explanations, and exercises for practising spoken Arabic.

A key to exercises is given at the back of this book. English-Arabic vocabulary is listed under topic headings pp. 79-85 followed by an Arabic-English Vocabulary starting on p. 86.

What kind of Arabic?

There are two main varieties of Arabic: literary and colloquial. Literary Arabic is more formal. In its written form, it is used in official documents, newspapers, books, and formal letters. In its spoken form, it is used in public speeches, religious sermons, radio and television news bulletins and documentary programmes. Literary Arabic is standard and is used and understood by educated people in all the Arab countries. A table of the Arab countries is given on p. 91.

Colloquial Arabic is the spoken variety used for everyday purposes: at home, in the shops, offices, hotels, restaurants and places of entertainment. Due to the vast area of the Arab world, colloquial Arabic varies from country to country. Nevertheless, the dialect used in Cairo (the capital of Egypt) is recognised and understood almost everywhere in the Arab world. It is known as Cairene or Egyptian Arabic. Almost everyone in the Arab world is exposed to Egyptian Arabic as a result of listening to Egyptian radio programmes, importing Egyptian television programmes, videos and films and buying cassettes and records of Egyptian popular songs. In addition, millions of Egyptians travel to other Arab countries and millions of Arabs from other countries travel to Egypt for business, education and holidays.

The Arabic taught in this book is Egyptian Arabic. Some words and phrases which are used in non-Egyptian Arabic are also included wherever appropriate.

Pronunciation

Most of the sounds of Arabic are similar to the sounds of English. Only six or seven might be unfamiliar to English speakers. Arabic has its own alphabet of 29 letters, and is usually written from right to left in its own script (see p. 92).

Some key words which visitors to Arab countries might need to recognise on signs or notice-boards are also written in Arabic and are introduced in the relevant chapters of the book.

The sounds of Arabic are divided into vowels and consonants. Vowels are either short or long.

Short vowels

a as in about, postman, e.g. samak (fish)
i as in bit, his, e.g. bmt (girl)
u as in put, foot, e.g. ruzz (rice)

Long vowels

aa as in hand, e.g. salaam (peace)
ee as in feed, e.g. sheek (cheque)
ou as in dome, e.g. yourn (day)
oo as in room, e.g. lagoon (lemon)
ei as in name, e.g. beif (house)

Note: a and aa are both influenced by certain consonants near them. The word baTT, for example, is pronounced like the English but, because of the T sound. The aa in the word DaabiT is pronounced like the a in calm, because of the D sound.

Consonants

The following Arabic consonants are similar to English ones.

b book	g game	l look
d day	h home	m man
f fun	k king	n noon
r room (r is always pronounced in Arabic regardless of its position in the word.)	t ten	y yes
s say	w well	z zero
sh shine

Please note that there are no p or v sounds in Arabic. Small p is usually replaced by b as in bansyoum for pension, and v is replaced by f as in karnaafal for carnival.

The Arabic consonants represented by the capital letters S, D, T, Z are vocal versions of s, d, t, z. You need to open your mouth as if you are saying aah and make the sound at the back of your mouth.

S SabaaH = morning	T Tayyib = O.K.
D beid = eggs	Z Zareef = charming

This sound is usually called a glottal stop. It is similar to the sound produced if you try to say butter or bottle without the t, as in Cockney.

Bill: 'ishshunaT ahih.
 Kamaal: Tayyib, ifaDDalu, 'ilcarabiyya fil maw'af.
 Catherine: shukran, huwwal huteil biceed?
 Nadya: la' ihuteil 'urayyib, mish biceed, laakin ishshunaT ti'eela.
 Bill: 'aywa, 'ishshunaT ti'eela giddan.
 Kamaal: Tayyib, ifaDDalu.

Masculine and feminine

Words in Arabic are classified as nouns, verbs or prepositions. Nouns and verbs have masculine and feminine forms. In colloquial Arabic some nouns can be made feminine by adding the sound a to the end of the masculine form.

Examples

Masculine	Feminine	Meaning
zimeel	zimeela	colleague (noun)
zoug	zougta	spouse (noun)
kwayyis	kwayyisa	good (adj.)
sareed	sareeda	pleased/happy (adj.)

Verbs have masculine and feminine forms for the singular, but only one form for the plural.

Examples

kaan he was (m. sing.)
 kaanit she was (f. pl.)
 kaanu they were (m. and f. pl.)

The definite article

It is the definite article in Arabic, like 'the' in English. The l sound in il disappears in some cases, and the first letter in the word is doubled instead.

Examples

huteil hotel
 carabiyya car
 ihuteil hotel
 ilcarabiyya the car

maw'af
rihla
shunaT

car park
flight
suitcases

ilnaw'af
irrihla
ishshunaT

I am... and This is...

The Arabic for 'I am Bill' is 'ana Bill. (I/me Bill). The equivalent of the verb to be (am, is, are) in Arabic is not used in such structures as I am, he is, they are, this is, that is, etc. More examples are given below with their English translation.

'ana Bill

I Bill

'ana Catherine

I Catherine

da zmeeli

This is my colleague

di zugri

This is my wife

il-carabiyya fil maw'af

The car is in the car park

ishshunaT ti'eela

The suitcases are heavy

I am Bill

I am Catherine

This is my colleague (he)

This is my wife (she)

The car is in the car park

(it)

The suitcases are heavy

(they)

My

To say 'my' in Arabic you add i sound at the end of the noun, whether it is masculine or feminine, singular or plural. But when the noun has a feminine ending with an a sound, the pronunciation of the word changes and ti replaces the a.

husband

my husband

zougta

BOOKING HOTEL ACCOMMODATION

Accommodation There are two main types of accommodation for people on holidays or business for a short period: hotels with star rating, and boarding houses called bansyoun. Guests in both types are always asked to fill in registration forms on arrival, giving passport details. There are also Youth Hostels in the big cities like Cairo, Alexandria, Luxor and Aswan.

Look for the following signs

Hotel	funduq	فندق
Boarding House/Pension	bansyoun	بنسبون
Youth Hostel	beit shabaab	بيت شباب
Reception	'istiqbaal	استقبال

Prices are fixed in hotels and Youth Hostels, but subject to negotiation in boarding houses.
